

From: Bill Weale Bill.Weale@BuilderMan.com
Subject: Summary
Date: July 2, 2020 at 7:31 AM
To: Tad Nunez townadministrator@fairleevt.org, Peter Berger peter.berger@fairleevt.org

Hi Tad and Peter—

I'll have something for you early next week. Just so you appreciate, I can't do an "Executive Summary" until I have something that can be summarized.

I'm planning to drop off with you what I have at the time, including a substantial amount of organized source documentation. Or would you rather have it "on the record" and publicly available? Either way is fine with me, but which way dictates the medium to use. I take full responsibility for my own work. Undoubtedly there will be supplemental info to follow and mistakes to correct, but I must have assurances that no changes of any kind be made without my knowledge and opportunity to comment. In other words, I can't blindly take responsibility for changes others wish to make or how others wish to use it.

—>A significant reason we're in the mess we are now is that not everyone with responsibilities is on the same page. Literally, some have ignored (intentionally or not) significant pages to build and to justify their respective positions.

All docs have been scanned, so everything is in electronic form. The executive summary will have links to source docs. And the file and folder structures will have names that should make it easier for a person just to browse the source docs, as needed. Used locally, it can simply take the form of a folder I can drop off at the TH. But keeping it intact would be impossible to control. Any suggestions?

Bill

From: Peter Berger peter.berger@fairleevt.org
Subject: Re: Summary
Date: July 2, 2020 at 11:48 AM
To: Bill Weale bill.weale@builderman.com, Fairlee Town Administrator townadministrator@fairleevt.org

PB

Bill,

I would keep this pretty high level if the outcome is for the SB form a task force to flesh out the details.

Based on what you've presented so far there is a lot of information but I think knowing the intent and responsibilities of the FFB, what is accomplished and how is at the heart of the current issues.

Thanks,
Peter

From: Bill Weale <bill.weale@builderman.com>
Sent: Thursday, July 2, 2020 7:31 AM
To: Fairlee Town Administrator <townadministrator@fairleevt.org>; Peter Berger <peter.berger@fairleevt.org>
Subject: Summary

Hi Tad and Peter—

I'll have something for you early next week. Just so you appreciate, I can't do an "Executive Summary" until I have something that can be summarized.

I'm planning to drop off with you what I have at the time, including a substantial amount of organized source documentation. Or would you rather have it "on the record" and publicly available? Either way is fine with me, but which way dictates the medium to use. I take full responsibility for my own work. Undoubtedly there will be supplemental info to follow and mistakes to correct, but I must have assurances that no changes of any kind be made without my knowledge and opportunity to comment. In other words, I can't blindly take responsibility for changes others wish to make or how others wish to use it.

—>A significant reason we're in the mess we are now is that not everyone with responsibilities is on the same page. Literally, some have ignored (intentionally or not) significant pages to build and to justify their respective positions.

All docs have been scanned, so everything is in electronic form. The executive summary will have links to source docs. And the file and folder structures will have names that should make it easier for a person just to browse the source docs, as needed. Used locally, it can simply take the form of a folder I can drop off at the TH. But keeping it intact would be impossible to control. Any suggestions?

Bill

From: Fairlee Town Administrator townadministrator@fairleevt.org
Subject: Tad reply - Summary
Date: July 2, 2020 at 8:41 AM
To: Bill Weale bill.weale@builderman.com, Peter Berger peter.berger@fairleevt.org

Hello Bill and Peter,
I'd rather have all material on the record.
Tad

-----Original Message-----

From: Bill Weale <bill.weale@builderman.com>
Sent: Thursday, July 02, 2020 7:32 AM
To: Fairlee Town Administrator <townadministrator@fairleevt.org>; Peter Berger <peter.berger@fairleevt.org>
Subject: Summary

Hi Tad and Peter—

I'll have something for you early next week. Just so you appreciate, I can't do an "Executive Summary" until I have something that can be summarized.

I'm planning to drop off with you what I have at the time, including a substantial amount of organized source documentation. Or would you rather have it "on the record" and publicly available? Either way is fine with me, but which way dictates the medium to use. I take full responsibility for my own work. Undoubtedly there will be supplemental info to follow and mistakes to correct, but I must have assurances that no changes of any kind be made without my knowledge and opportunity to comment. In other words, I can't blindly take responsibility for changes others wish to make or how others wish to use it.

—>A significant reason we're in the mess we are now is that not everyone with responsibilities is on the same page. Literally, some have ignored (intentionally or not) significant pages to build and to justify their respective positions.

All docs have been scanned, so everything is in electronic form. The executive summary will have links to source docs. And the file and folder structures will have names that should make it easier for a person just to browse the source docs, as needed. Used locally, it can simply take the form of a folder I can drop off at the TH. But keeping it intact would be impossible to control. Any suggestions?

Bill

From: bill.weale@builderman.com
Subject: Re: Summary
Date: July 2, 2020 at 12:14 PM
To: Peter Berger peter.berger@fairleevt.org
Cc: Fairlee Town Administrator townadministrator@fairleevt.org

Perhaps you all could take the time to digest what I send over. Vet it, so to speak, make any changes you want and then publish it yourselves?

www

On Jul 2, 2020, at 11:48 AM, Peter Berger <peter.berger@fairleevt.org> wrote:

Bill,

I would keep this pretty high level if the outcome is for the SB form a task force to flesh out the details.

Based on what you've presented so far there is a lot of information but I think knowing the intent and responsibilities of the FFB, what is accomplished and how is at the heart of the current issues.

Thanks,
Peter

From: Bill Weale <bill.weale@builderman.com>

Sent: Thursday, July 2, 2020 7:31 AM

To: Fairlee Town Administrator <townadministrator@fairleevt.org>; Peter Berger <peter.berger@fairleevt.org>

Subject: Summary

Hi Tad and Peter—

I'll have something for you early next week. Just so you appreciate, I can't do an "Executive Summary" until I have something that can be summarized.

I'm planning to drop off with you what I have at the time, including a substantial amount of organized source documentation. Or would you rather have it "on the record" and publicly available? Either way is fine with me, but which way dictates the medium to use. I take full responsibility for my own work. Undoubtedly there will be supplemental info to follow and mistakes to correct, but I must have assurances that no changes of any kind be made without my knowledge and opportunity to comment. In other words, I can't blindly take responsibility for changes others wish to make or how others wish to use it.

—>A significant reason we're in the mess we are now is that not everyone with responsibilities is on the same page. Literally, some have ignored (intentionally or not) significant pages to build and to justify their respective positions.

All docs have been scanned, so everything is in electronic form. The executive summary will have links to source docs. And the file and folder structures will have names that should make it easier for a person just to browse the source docs, as needed. Used locally, it can simply take the form of a folder I can drop off at the TH. But keeping it intact would be impossible to control. Any suggestions?

Bill

